SHORT BIO · 60 WORDS

The Real Prechly is a South African DJ, vocalist and record producer working at the sharp end of amapiano. Born Nonhlanhla Precious Mahlangu and raised in Ekangala outside Pretoria, she broke through in 2023 and has since carried the log-drum sound to Dubai, Doha, London, Moscow and Sydney.

FULL BIO · 250 WORDS

Nonhlanhla Precious Mahlangu — professionally The Real Prechly — is a multi-disciplinary artist based in Johannesburg. She grew up singing in church in Ekangala, a village on the outskirts of Pretoria, and was studying engineering before music took over.

Her rise began in 2023, when she enrolled at Mapentane Music Academy to learn to DJ and signed with Kago Artist Management. A run of nights at Moloko in Menlyn turned into a residency and the clips travelled faster than the bookings could keep up. Production followed almost immediately: working with Ice Beats Slide, Sbuda Maleather and EeQue, she cut “Nyakaza Haibo”, a debut single that became one of the most used sounds on TikTok that year.

The single anchored her debut EP “Lotus Flower Bomb” (November 2023), whose standout record “A Collision of Two Worlds” found an audience in Nigeria and caught the ear of Shallipopi. Their 2024 remix, “A Collision of Two Worlds 2.0”, became one of the defining South Africa–West Africa amapiano crossovers of the year. She has since gone toe to toe with Detroit techno royalty on a reworking of Inner City and Kevin Saunderson’s “Good Life”, released the album “The Pride”, and kept a steady release cadence through 2025.

She plays as a traditionalist: no theatrics, hands on the mixer, reading the floor. It has taken her to Australia, the United Kingdom, Russia, Dubai, Qatar and across the African continent — and made her one of the most in-demand female amapiano DJs working today.
